get a divorce if I even attempt to color my hair.Mrs. Mack—The brute! Are you going to allow him to dictate to you in that fashion?Mrs. Jack—No indeed. I've resolved to dye for freedom.Her Fear.
Nervous old lady (as train stops suddenly)—What's the matter?Trainman—There is a two-hundred foot embankment here and a whole train just rolled down it.Nervous old lady—O dear; I hope it wasn't ours.Elsie's Find.
Six-year-old Elsie teased her mother unrelentingly for a chew of gum before they went into the theatre, but explaining it was impolite to chew in public her mother refused to give it to her.Little Elsie did not forget the gum however, for when the show was over she said:"Mamma, where does gum come from?""From a tree, Elsie," replied her mother.

"What kind of a tree, mamma?"

"Why, a spruce tree, my dear."

"Well, the seat I sat in must have been made of a spruce tree, 'cause I dug a nice big chew of gum off the bottom of it."Ever Notice?
Willis—You don't see as many of these brainless-looking creatures of the fashion-artist walking through the pages of the magazines as you used to.Gillis—No; they are all riding in the automobile-advertisements now.Little Lesson in Natural History.
Noah was standing in the rain, superintending the loading of the Ark. At last all the live stock was in, save the camel, who hung back.Noah lost patience, for his umbrella had blown inside out, his rain coat was not living up to its guarantee and his rubber boots had holes in them."Here you!" he shouted to the camel. "Get a hump on yourself!" The camel got his back up about it, and that's how it happened.Waste Labor.

"Impossible."

"But I saw it."

"Impossible—ridiculous!"

"I tell you it did."

"And I say it didn't because it couldn't."

"I was there and witnessed it."

"Do you mean to tell me that he was killed by a bolt from a clear sky?
Do you expect me to believe such a yarn?" he shouted."That's just what I'm telling you.
A workman on a twenty-story building dropped the bolt."—Kansas City Journal.Indirectly.
"Is there any profit in selling postage stamps?" inquired the man in search of information."Not directly," replied the druggist, "but it gets people into the habit of going to the drug store, and after that it doesn't take long to make chronic invalids of them."—Kansas City Star.Got 'Em All.
Mess Cook—"Ere, Bill, next time you send up a crate of chickens see that they don't get loose. I've spent hours scouring the neighborhood and only been able to find ten."Orderly—"Ush, 'Erb, 'ush. I only sent yer six!"—Tid-bits.His Experiment.
A certain college president wore side whiskers. Whenever he suggested removing them, there was division of opinion in the family. One morning he entered his wife's dressing room, razor in hand, with his right cheek shaved smooth."How do you like it, my dear?" he asked. "If you think it looks well, I will shave the other side, too."— "Well, if that Watson isn't the most conceited, self-satisfied self!""Yes, I've heard you say something of that kind before. What's started you off this time?""He just sent a telegram of congratulations to his mother."

"Well?"

"Today's his birthday."—Every-

Savings of $4,000,000 a year.The demand of 400,000 railroad employees for ten-hour pay for an eight-hour day, and pay-and-a-half for overtime is another cloud on the business horizon. It will prevent investments in railroads, and with business men demanding reduced freight rates, will force the railroads ultimately into public ownership.Under post office department rulings you can send 3 pounds of printed matter from here to Philomath for 24 cents, but you can send 4 pounds for 8 cents. If a private corporation did business that way it would be fined $2,000,000 for discrimination or something, and all the officials sent to the penitentiary.—Gazette-
